How We Help

The experts at Estate Group ease the burden of estate administration for executors who:

- Have no idea what services will be needed to successfully settle the estate for which they're responsible
- Are unsure which local service providers are reputable
- Are overwhelmed by the need to make emotionally charged decisions so soon after their loss
- Have too many other commitments to make the necessary phone calls and manage multiple deadlines
- Have siblings and heirs involved and need an objective, experienced third party to help with key decisions
- Live in a different county or state from the property they are trying to sell

We perform a valuable service for everyone involved in probate matters, including executors, attorneys, and the Probate Court.

The Complete Solution

In the quality and range of the services it provides, Estate Group is unique. Other companies might be able to help executors hold a tag sale or professionally clean a house. But no other single company can provide the expert advice, high-quality services, and attention to detail necessary for coordinating the entire estate process, from beginning to end.

For concerned professionals...

The impact of probate issues extends beyond executors and their attorneys to those who do business with and minister to grieving families. These professionals see firsthand the emotional toll of death and the financial burdens it can cause for those who are left behind.
